

TYPO3 Core - Bug #24088

Deactivating all help-modules causes a new dummy entry in "HELP" menu

2010-11-16 23:41 - Kai Vogel

Status: Closed	Start date: 2010-11-16
Priority: Should have	Due date:
Assignee:	% Done: 0%
Category:	Estimated time: 0.00 hour
Target version:	Complexity:
TYPO3 Version: 4.5	Is Regression:
PHP Version:	Sprint Focus:
Tags:
Description If all help-modules like "tsconfig_help" or "aboutmodules" are disabled in EM, a new submenu entry named "Help" appears in BE menu "HELP". Nothing happens if you click on it... (issue imported from #M16428)
Related issues:
Related to TYPO3 Core - Bug #21227: Section "Help" is shown even with no sube...	Closed 2009-10-10
Related to TYPO3 Core - Bug #23581: Module menu and content area are empty af...	Closed 2010-09-23
Has duplicate TYPO3 Core - Bug #24130: Help Section is shown in Main Menu alt...	Closed 2010-11-18

History

#1 - 2010-11-18 17:50 - Chris topher

This was fixed with #21227.

Can you check, why it is broken again?

#2 - 2010-11-18 17:57 - Georg Ringer

since #23581 (rev 8863) it is broken again

#3 - 2011-11-26 00:01 - Stefan Galinski

- File modulemenu.png added

- Status changed from Needs Feedback to Closed

- Target version deleted (0)

Tested and can't be reproduced anymore with the current master.

Files

modulemenu.png	7.83 KB	2011-11-26	Stefan Galinski
----------------	---------	------------	-----------------