CLA flag missing for groups, break group membership on projects

Description When a group is assigned to a project, the settings screen of said project can no longer be used. This is because the list of members shows the CLA status for members, but that field is missing on the groups (https://gist.github.com/3091211). My guess is that https://gist.github.com/3091098 would solve the issue. Because groups would enable way easier membership management for the Phoenix and FLOW3 distribution projects, we'd be very grateful if this was solved!

1. This bug/feature needs to be tackled within redmine
2. Also the sync-scripts towards Gerrit/git need to be adapted to take this change into account

Is this still an issue for anyone?

Thx,

As said, our usecase will soon be non-existent, but I guess for anyone using Forge this still might be useful. But feel free to ignore, as discussed yesterday.

Thx for getting back on this and adding the result of our nice latenight conversion on this ticket.

I'll just set the priority to "could have" and remove myself as being responsible (prefer pull over push for assignments anyway).
