Description

General workflow:

- "User overview" shows the settings of the current user.
- "Permissions" shows the access to the page/tree

Following bugs are identified:

- Admin in "User overview" > all fields are green as this is an admin, no need to show matrix
- Admin in "User overview" doesn't see the column "lock", no need to hide - especially if a normal user can see that
- Changes an editor does in "User overview" via matrix are not persisted
- Editor could change the editlock, even if no rights for this field.
- Editor can't set an owner as the dynamic select box is not shown
- Kind of no ajax request works for editors
- If the adminlock is enabled for a page, nothing must be changeable through the module. tcemain prevents that later, gui indicates otherwise

Possible solution

make the module for admins only, remove the overview

Revision 2e6f9ed8 - 2012-09-22 14:30 - Georg Ringer

[BUGFIX] Set permission module for admins only

The permission module makes only sense for admins.
At the same time the "Overview" is removed and only the view "Permissions" is shown.

Revision aa1aac8c - 2015-01-22 09:39 - Christian Kuhn

[TASK] Clean up ext:beuser permission module access checks

The access module is restricted to admin users since core 6.0.
The patch removes left over code checks for non admin users.

#1 - 2012-09-22 10:18 - Felix Kopp

The overview does not bring any benefit I support the idea to remove the overview.

Also the table in Permissions does not comply with backend layout table style. Table should be 100% wide and have white background color. Easy fix: add class="typo3-dblast" to the Table tag definition. Plus: Do not center some labels.
