Description When you want to have a page in menu which is a straight link to a file (like pdf) you have to create a page type external url and create the link manually. There is an extension (from2007) jb_external_typolink that includes the element/filebrowser to the link field. This way you can easily add a file, external url or email link as a menu item.  Improves greatly the usability and I think it would rather be a core feature than an extension.

Nice idea. Katja, could you try to create a patch for that or ask Jan to do that?

- File `tbl_pages.php.patch.txt` added

Hi,

I'm attaching the patch. It's basically just adding a wizard to the URL field. I found the definition of this field in 2 PHP files, but only in this one it worked. But I believe you review it.

#3 - 2015-01-12 19:30 - Mathias Schreiber

- Target version set to 7.2 (Frontend)

#4 - 2015-05-16 01:11 - Riccardo De Contardi

there is another extension that does a similar thing: <http://typo3.org/extensions/repository/view/filepage>
