Description
Here is a be ViewHelper to render a submit button as an icon, like for 'save', 'save and close', 'save and view', and 'save and add'.

Hi,

was this issue fixed or does it still exists?

#2 - 2014-09-15 14:52 - Charles Brunet

I do not think such VH was integrated into the core of TYPO3 yet.

Yes, but shouldn't adding an icon be done by CSS?

There actually is, in the Fluid extension, a be.buttons.icon ViewHelper. This works when the button is a link (for close of view actions for example). However, for 'save' action, the button need to submit the form. While it could be done with JavaScript, a better solution is to render the button as an input of type image. This is why I think a ViewHelper for that could be provided, to help building consistent interfaces between be modules.
