Description
If sorting of IRRE child records is changed in a workspace and published, the sorting of child records is not published along. This behaviour could be solved by using proper move placeholders for IRRE child records as well, but conflicts with the possibility to define a custom sorting field in the parent entity of the relation construct. Besides that, sorting values are not published in any case. That's why a post-processing of IRRE children is required for sorting.
