Description

If a TYPO3 installation uses the UTF8-enabled filesystem to allow uploading of any file name, it is possible to upload files named myimage.JPEG instead of automatically lower-cased etc.

A lot of checks for the file extension in the TYPO3 Core are done to check via `GeneralUtility::inList()` which only checks for the lowercase file endings.

The bigger picture is to have this in a centralized place to check if the file can be processed, but for now, all the checks that still didn't work are replaced by checking for a lower-cased file extension.
