Description
We could not find an option/configuration to move the GoogleAnalytics code from the end of body of the HTML page to the header. We had several requests from clients who really want to move it up (for whatever reason). Assuming this is not possible, I would like to suggest this as a new feature :-) It should be possible to configure, that the GA code appears just before the </head> tag.
