Description
I'm talking about the folder named <code>_recycler_</code> , as referenced in this blogpost: http://www.lacisoft.com/blog/2010/07/22/how-to-create-a-recycle-bin-trash-feature-in-typo3s-fileadmin/ In 6.2 there are no more deleted files moved to this folder, but it still has its own folder icon and scheduler task. It was still working in TYPO3 4.7 (no FAL, of course), which I was just able to confirm in my local XAMPP installations.

[BUGFIX] File Recycler collect deleted files again

Check if a recycler folder exists along the path from the storage root to the file. If a matching folder is found move the file or folder to be deleted to the closest recycler folder instead of immediately removing them from the local filesystem.

Still not working in TYPO3 6.2.19

#15 - 2016-03-30 09:12 - Clemens Riccabona

Is there any chance to get this into 6.2, which is a LTS officially supported till 3/2017, which is in fact a year from now!?

beside that, it is just ridiculous: in 6.2 we have got the cool new feature of cleaning recycler automagically via taskscheduler.
but guess what: recycler not been filled anyway.
really a funfact! ;)

You could just apply the patch to 6.2.19 yourself.
I did the same, and it worked.

But I agree, it should be in 6.2, since the feature has been there from the start. Can somebody reopen this?

Thanks for confirming, that the patch just works for 6.2 too!
Essentially I do not like (read: hate) to change the core myself everytime when there is a new version published ...
But better than the response: update to 7 LTS, the bug is gone there ... (also an advice I get sometimes when reporting bugs ...)

#18 - 2016-04-21 11:09 - Florian Seirer

Now that it works again I found out that files can't be deleted if there is already another file with the same name in the recycler folder.

```
PHP Fatal error: Class 'DateTimeImmutable' not found in /var/www/typo3/typo3-6.2.21/typo3/sysext/core/Classes/Resource/Driver/LocalDriver.php on line 827

Should i create a new issue for this?
