[!!!][TASK] Improve flex and TCA handling in FormEngine

The patch adapts a series of nasty form engine areas to more solid code. The evaluate condition code is rewritten and works much better in flex form scenarios. The suggest wizard and svg tree are much more solid in flex forms. The group element is rewritten towards a better readable and easier to refactor code, dropping method dbFilecons(). A bunch of issues is resolved along the way.

- TCA "default" now works in flex form section container elements
- The "displayCond" parser is now strict and throws exceptions on invalid syntax and wrong referenced fields to help debugging faulty display conditions
- TCA displayCond on flex fields can now be prefixed with the sheet name and can reference field values from neighbor sheets
- TCA displayCond now works with flex section containers
- TCA flex section container now throw an exception if select or group fields configure a MM relation - this is not supported
- TCA ctrl requestUpdate field is dropped, onChange=reload is now allowed not only on flex form fields, but also on normal columns fields
- TCA tree now works as section container element and initializes correctly on new records and new containers
- GroupElement rewrite to drop dbFilecons()
- config option maxitems now optional for type=group and type=select and defaults to "many items allowed"
- inline now works in "fancy" flex situations with "new" records by handing the final dataStructureIdentifier around
- FormEngine no longer loads extJS

[BUGFIX] FormEngine group element top/bottom buttons

The sort top/bottom buttons in group element no longer depend on the number of selected items. This is inconvenient anyway since these sorting buttons only appeared after saving when a bunch of items was selected, but not immediately. The patch additionally fixes a failing acceptance test.
