Description

TCA type's inline localizationMode can either be "keep" or "select". At least "keep" is counter-productive if allowLanguageSynchronization is enabled. That's why the whole localizationMode behaviour setting shall be deprecated and ignored in case allowLanguageSynchronization is enabled for the very same TCA field.

[TASK] Deprecate inline localizationMode

TCA type's inline localizationMode can either be "keep" or "select". At least "keep" is counter-productive if allowLanguageSynchronization is enabled. That's why the whole localizationMode behaviour setting shall be deprecated and ignored in case allowLanguageSynchronization is enabled for the very same TCA field.

This change does not migrate non-conflicting localizationMode settings automatically, since this potentially might be breaking and cannot be done without side-effects. Besides that calls to the static function BackendUtility::getInlineLocalizationMode() do not trigger a new entry in the deprecation log since the usage of localizationMode in TCA is logged already.
