Description
The $recordInDatabase in line 506 is false if no metadata for the file exist. This produce a wrong edit link where uid is null. This can be fix by adding a check on $recordInDatabase in the if condition on line 522. if ($recordInDatabase && $backendUser->check('tables_modify', 'sys_file_metadata')) {

- Status changed from Resolved to New

When a record is in a certain language (sys_language_uid > 0) it does not mean the meta data of a referenced file have to be translated into the same language.

When you work with separate files in different languages (e.g. PDFs) you will usually not have translated meta data records, you still should be able to access/edit them.

My proposal is to link to the according meta data translation if possible (as it is now) and link to the meta data in the default language if there is no matching translation.

Sebastian Kurfuerst, can you please open a new ticket to your issue? The issue described in the ticket has been resolved by the patches merged. You are welcome to set a relation to this one on the new ticket so we can easily follow up on the different stages the behavior went through.

If you need a different behavior, please describe it in a little more detail than you did here, and do in a separate ticket. It's easier to keep track of the changes then.

Thanks a bunch.

I close this ticket again for the named reason.
