Could somebody help me to get this clear:

1. in #82668 a fix was introduced to help people who try to send forms via keyboard
2. this introduced a regression: the back button did not work any more, regardless of input device
3. in this ticket #83057 the latter was fixed by adding an onClick event handler

From my understanding the results of these activities are:

- forms still can't be navigated via keyboard
- JS and mouse action are required to reach the previous step

Can somebody point out the improvement?
