Description
1) have a site with translatable content 2) create a page 3) regardless of the type of user (admin or non admin), and regardless on whether there is or is not content on the page in any of the languages a) having the page selected in the page tree and deleting it through the context menu, does not actually delete it. No error messages are shown. Regardless on whether you were in the page module or the list module. b) having the page selected in the page tree, and deleting it through the "drag page to the right, red delete area", does delete it c) having selected another page in the page tree, and deleting the page through the context menu, does delete it without problems Observed on 9 and current master

Revision 2407febb - 2019-04-29 20:43 - Andreas Fernandez

[BUGFIX] Invoke delete command via AJAX

The delete command triggered by the page tree's context menu was invoked by loading a URL in the module iframe which caused timing issues due to subsequent requests.

This patch invokes an AJAX call instead to deleted pages.

Resolves: #87416

Releases: master, 9.5

I can reproduce it in the same way in 9.5 and master

Can confirm this. I can even reproduce this without having translations in your website. So if you want to delete the page by the context menu that is currently selected, you get the earlier mentioned behaviour.

Yes! By me it is the same. I can reproduce this with a clean TYPO3 9.5 Installation and without having translations.
