[!!!][TASK] Remove view related properties from ActionController

Both properties $namespacesViewObjectNamePattern and $viewFormatToObjectNameMap of class ActionController have been removed without replacement.

Both properties provided a functionality to set a custom view object class during runtime. As this contradicts the idea of having a defined state per request by configuring concrete implementations before runtime, these properties needed to vanish.

While there is no dependency injection with a proper configuration available, the view object class can still be defined via property $defaultViewObjectName.
