Description

Prerequisites

- TYPO3 10.4.2-dev (latest master)
- two languages configured (in my case italian ( ID=0) and english (ID=1))
- a page with two columns, I used this backend layout config

```
mod.web_layout.BackendLayouts { exampleKey {
    title = Example
    icon = EXT:example_extension/Resources/Public/Images/BackendLayouts/default.gif config { backend_layout { colCount = 1
        rowCount = 2
        rows { 1 {
            columns { 1 {
                name = default
                colPos = 0
              }
            }
          }
          2 {
            columns {
              1 {
                name = bottom
                colPos = 1
              }
            }
          }
        }
      }
    }
  }
}
```

Steps to reproduce

- 1) Create a page "Test" and translate it
- 2) Create a content element in default language, column 0
- 3) Create a content element in default language, column 1
- 4) translate only the element in column 0 (translate mode)

this is the result:

Italian

Site A

default

+ Content

Italian

Test ITA in default column

+ Content

bottom

+ Content

Italian

TEST ITA in bottom column

+ Content

English

Connected Mode

Translate [Translate to English:] Site A

default

English

[Translate to English:] Test ITA in default column

bottom

5) Now, switch to "english" and "columns" view

Results

A) it shows the warning

Unused elements detected on this page
These elements don't belong to any of the available columns of this page. You should either delete them or move them to existing columns. We highlighted the problematic records for you.

B) the element in default language is shown on a second "default" column (?)

See attached image:

Additional considerations

- the issue occurs also with free mode translation
- the issue does not occur if all elements are translated
