Description
Using the context menu of the page tree became difficult. The context menu is displaced and when moving the mouse pointer to it, the menu disappears again (since I'm too slow).
I've attached a screencast on how that looks like on my side.

[BUGFIX] Properly position ContextMenu again

With #89496 the ContextMenu got keyboard support added. However, the underlying code does still use only a click event to trigger the ContextMenu, which is now also manually triggered for keypress events. It was therefore not possible to differ between the three possible ways, the ContextMenu can be used:

1. Mouse click only
2. Mixed
 - 2.1 Click on ContextMenu and navigate via keyboard
 - 2.2 Access ContextMenu via keyboard and navigate via click
3. Keyboard only

Therefore, we now check the mouse position. If it's NULL, the ContextMenu was opened via keyboard. Furthermore, we use a boolean flag, which helps the getPosition method to determine the correct position in mixed mode. Using mouse click will now behave like before. Using the keyboard will now always use the boundingRect for positioning.
