Description

Was did I do?

- Read the security team recommendation "How to stay informed about security updates" (<https://typo3.org/community/teams/security>)
- Open the link to the typo3-announce mailing list (<http://lists.typo3.org/cgi-bin/mailman/listinfo/typo3-announce>)
- Enter an E-Mail address and hit the subscribe button

What did I expect?

- The form is send via HTTPS
- The given e-mail is added to the mailinglist

What happened instead?

- The form is send via HTTP
- The form redirects to a error domain -> <http://lists.netfielders.de/de/> does not exist anymore

Additional information:

- See #21318 - seems like links to the service have been fixed in the core but not in the service itself

History

#1 - 2021-02-25 09:45 - Dan Untenzu

Just found out, that the Server Team moved its issue tracker to a GitLab instance

- HTTP/HTTPS → <https://gitlab.typo3.org/server/team/-/issues/62>
- Usage of dead netfielders domain → <https://gitlab.typo3.org/server/team/-/issues/64>

This issue may be closed.
